Forecast For Northern Ireland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 1600 on Friday 12 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Rather cold and showery.

This Evening and Tonight:
A mostly cloudy evening and night with rain at times, occasionally heavy. Becoming somewhat clearer later in the night, though freshening west to northwesterly winds will bring a few showers, wintry on high ground. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Saturday:
Some bright or sunny intervals and occasional showers, these some heavy especially in the north with snow on high ground at first. Feeling chilly in the brisk northwesterly winds. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Rain for a time Sunday then brighter with showers. Mainly dry Monday, light rain later. Overnight rain soon clearing on Tuesday then dry and sunny.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.